Sample Online Course Evaluation

Providing students with a way to give detailed feedback on their experience in an online course enables the instructor to improve the presentation of the class for future students. While the university has an official assessment instrument for course evaluation for the purpose of RPT, instructors may want to consider voluntarily using an additional instrument that is explicitly designed for use in online classes. The following series of questions have been prepared with that in mind, and any subset of these can easily be added to a Blackboard survey or other assessment tool.
